Specialist Learning Disability Care
Recognising individual needs

Our learning disability services recognise the needs of every individual that we support and are set up to respond to these needs in a meaningful, person centred manner. Prior to admission to Lighthouse services we provide a comprehensive needs-led assessment that involves the individual, their families/ carers, current care provider and commissioner.

Specialist learning disability care

We provide learning disability care in a range of environments from low secure hospitals to small residential care homes. The key elements across all of our services are:

• Small group living environments
• Engagement in the community
• A person-centred approach
• Understanding the needs of the individual
• Minimising lengths of stay
• A strong emphasis on safeguarding vulnerable people
• Access to independent advocacy services

A complete care pathway

Through our range of services we provide a complete care pathway that enables us to support an individual from low secure care right through to community living in a residential service.

Our care pathways help with preparing individuals for the ultimate goal of being discharged from services into the person’s own tenancy in the community.

Our services implement the My Shared Pathway and Life Star models of person centred planning. This promotes individuals playing an active role in their care and treatment and progressing through services as quickly as possible.
